an immediate skin refresher

In-office peels can do wonders for the skin—they clear up breakouts, correct discoloration and make it softer. All around, they're a fast fix for combating a dull complexion. The downside: They can require hiding out at home for at least the weekend. If you want the benefits of a peel but don't want to succumb to looking like you trekked across the Arctic (think post-peel redness, dryness and flaking) consider New York dermatologist Dennis Gross, MD, Alpha Beta Professional Peel. A favorite among celebrities pre-red carpet, the downtime-free peel—and I mean no downtime at all—incorporates a mélange of professional-strength alpha- and beta-hydroxy acids to restore clarity, firmness and radiance. Can't make it to the NYC office? The peel is also available at spas like Miraval—and there's a two-step take-home version, too (albeit not as intense). Starting at $78, sephora.com

TWO NEW WAYS TO GET BETTER BOTOX RESULTS

Botox is one of the best anti-wrinkle choices and a new study suggests you might be able to get even better results. According to a recent article in the Aesthetic Surgery Journal, patients who had Botox injections and then followed a skin-care routine of 4-percent hydroquinone and Retin-A noticed fewer wrinkles and less discoloration. Another study, published in Medical News Today, reported that those who keep up with their Botox injections may have half as many wrinkles after just 20 months of use (that's injections every four months for two years). The reason: The more often you're injected, the better the effect.

THE PRODUCT THAT DOES IT ALL!

I'll admit it—I have my doubts when a single product claims to replace the need for multiple essentials. One Love Organics Skin Savior is one of the few I've come across that lives up to its claim. I was skeptical about this organic cleansing, moisturizing and conditioning balm—I mean, a solid product that can do all three? The first test: acting as a moisturizer for my ever-so dry elbows and feet. The greaseless formula passed with flying colors. Next up, remove a face of makeup—job well done. Lastly, I mixed it with loose mineral powder and my makeup was perfectly dewy. A new must-have for me! $68, oneloveorganics.com

the secret to perfect legs

One of the easiest ways to get long, lean legs is to wear nude-toned shoes—the eyes aren't drawn down so you look taller and thinner. Borrowing from the trend of figure-flattering skin tone "matching" shoes, Tkees goes one step further, billing itself as the first shoe line inspired by makeup. Creator Carly Burnett started with nude tones fashioned after foundation—as the craze caught on, the line boomed into what resembles a beauty junkie's makeup drawer. "The shades range from light to dark so everyone can find a color that complements their skin and makes their legs look good," she says. Besides the nude hues, there are shadows, fun colors that emulate popular shimmery shades; glosses, supershiny colors that mimic lipgloss; and liners, dark, smoky shades that define the same way liner does for the eyes (highlighters, blushes, creams, lipsticks and polishes round out the assortment). Next spring Tkees launches the customizable tricolored palette and the sunscreen-inspired "zinc" line—if it's able to offer true sun protection, it's a match made in beauty and fashion heaven! $55, tkees.com
